AESCHYLUS

The Tragedy of Renown: Nietzsche, Aeschylus, and the Might Have Been. Michael Naas. 277–90.

ARCHITECTURE

Foreign Bodies in Strange Places: A Note on Maurice Merleau-Ponty, Georges Bataille, and Architecture. David Farrell Krell. 43–50.

AUTOBIOGRAPHY

Autobiography Against Itself. Richard White. 291–303.

BARRY, James, Jr.

The Technical Body: Incorporating Technology and Flesh. 390–401.

BATAILLE, Georges

Foreign Bodies in Strange Places: A Note on Maurice Merleau-Ponty, Georges Bataille, and Architecture. David Farrell Krell. 43–50.

BERGSON, Henri

Time, Self, and Meaning in the Works of Henri Bergson, Maurice Merleau-Ponty, and Paul Ricoeur. Mark Muldoon. 254–68.

BLOCK, Ed, Jr.

Radical Hermeneutics and Radical Homelessness. 269–76.

BLONDEL, Maurice

The Blondel-Gilson Correspondence Through Foucault's Mirror. Fiachra Long. 351–61.

BUKALA, C. R., S.J.

Consciousness Creative and Self-Creating. 14–25.

BUSCH, Thomas

Sartre on Surpassing the Given. 26–31.

CAPUTO, John D.

Incarnation and Essentialization: A Reading of Heidegger. 32–42.

Radical Hermeneutics and Radical Homelessness. Ed Block, Jr. 269"76.

CARR, David

Limning the Liminal: Carr and Ricoeur on Time and Narrative. David Pellauer. 51–62.

CARVALHO, John M.

Repetitions: Appropriating Representation in Contemporary Art. John M. Carvalho. 307–24.

CONSCIOUSNESS

Consciousness Creative and Self-Creating. C. R. Bukala, S.J. 14–25.

DE LACOSTE, Guillemine

Robert Lechner. 5.

DERRIDA, Jacques

"Jewgreek and Greekjew": The Concept of Trace in Derrida and Levinas. Michael J. Macdonald. 215–227.

EMBODIMENT

The Body as Understood in Contemporary Thought and Biblical Categories. Antoine Vergote. 93–105.

Intentionality of Feelings. David Oyler. 339–50.

The Technical Body: Incorporating Technology and Flesh. James Barry, Jr. 390–401.

ETHICS

Emotions and Responsibility. George Turski. 137–52.

Contemporary Ethics and Scheler's Phenomenology of Community. Edward Vacek. 161–74.

Universality and Violence: Merleau-Ponty, Malraux, and the Moral Logic of Liberalism. Kerry H. Whiteside. 372–89.

FOUCAULT, Michel

The Blondel-Gilson Correspondence Through Foucault's Mirror. Fiachra Long. 351–61.

FREEDOM

Aspects of Freedom. Robert E. Wood. 106–15.

GADAMER, Hans-Georg

Philosophical Hermeneutics and Its Meaning for Philosophy. Carl Page. 127–36.

GILSON, Etienne

The Blondel-Gilson Correspondence Through Foucault's Mirror. Fiachra Long. 351–61.

HEIDEGGER, Martin

Incarnation and Essentialization: A Reading of Heidegger. John D. Caputo. 32–42.

The Healing Word: Language, Thinking and Being in the Earlier and Later Philosophy of Martin Heidegger. Robert D. Walsh. 228–38.

Heidegger and Epideictic Discourse: The Rhetorical Performance of Meditative Thinking. Michael P. Sipiora. 239–253.

HERMENEUTICS

Radical Hermeneutics and Radical Homelessness. Ed Block, Jr. 269"76.

Philosophical Hermeneutics and Its Meaning for Philosophy. Carl Page. 127–36.

KRELL, David Farrell

Foreign Bodies in Strange Places: A Note on Maurice Merleau-Ponty, Georges Bataille, and Architecture. 43–50.

LEVINAS, Emmanuel

"Jewgreek and Greekjew": The Concept of Trace in Derrida and Levinas. Michael J. Macdonald. 215–227.

LINGIS, Alphonso

We Mortals. 119–26.

LONG, Fiachra

The Blondel-Gilson Correspondence Through Foucault's Mirror. 351–61.

LYOTARD, Jean-François

Philosophical Hierarchies and Lyotard's Dichotomies. Raphael Sassower and Charla Phyllis Ogaz. 153–60.

MACDONALD, Michael J.

"Jewgreek and Greekjew": The Concept of Trace in Derrida and Levinas. Michael J. Macdonald. 215–227.

MALRAUX, Andr

Universality and Violence: Merleau-Ponty, Malraux, and the Moral Logic of Liberalism. Kerry H. Whiteside. 372–89.

MALY, Kenneth

The Rooting and Uprooting of Reason: On Spacings by John Sallis. 195–208.

MERLEAU-PONTY, Maurice

Foreign Bodies in Strange Places: A Note on Maurice Merleau-Ponty, Georges Bataille, and Architecture. David Farrell Krell. 43–50.

Time, Self, and Meaning in the Works of Henri Bergson, Maurice Merleau-Ponty, and Paul Ricoeur. Mark Muldoon. 254–68.

Vérité à Faire: Merleau-Ponty's Question Concerning Truth. Bernhard Waldenfels. 185–94.

Universality and Violence: Merleau-Ponty, Malraux, and the Moral Logic of Liberalism. Kerry H. Whiteside. 372–89.

The Technical Body: Incorporating Technology and Flesh. James Barry, Jr. 390–401.

MULDOON, Mark

Time, Self, and Meaning in the Works of Henri Bergson, Maurice Merleau-Ponty, and Paul Ricoeur. 254–68.

NAAS, Michael

The Tragedy of Renown: Nietzsche, Aeschylus, and the Might Have Been. 277–90.

NARRATIVE

Limning the Liminal: Carr and Ricoeur on Time and Narrative. David Pellauer. 51–62.

Narrative Identity. Paul Ricoeur. 73–81.

NIETZSCHE, Friedrich

The Tragedy of Renown: Nietzsche, Aeschylus, and the Might Have Been. Michael Naas. 277–90.

Autobiography Against Itself. Richard White. 291–303.

OGAZ, Charla Phyllis and Raphael Sassower

Philosophical Hierarchies and Lyotard's Dichotomies. 153–60.

OYLER, David

Intentionality of Feelings. 339–50.

PAGE, Carl

Philosophical Hermeneutics and Its Meaning for Philosophy. 127–36.

PASCAL, Blaise

Pascal on Habit: Spiritual Discipline as the Practice of Paradox. Peter H. Van Ness. 402–12.

PIERCE, Charles Sanders

Pragmatics and Pragmatism. Patrick Sullivan. 175–84.

PELLAUER, David

Limning the Liminal: Carr and Ricoeur on Time and Narrative. 51–62.

POST-MODERNISM

Repetitions: Appropriating Representation in Contemporary Art. John M. Carvalho. 307–24.

RANLY, Ernest W.

Cross-Cultural Philosophizing. 63–72.

RICOEUR, Paul

Narrative Identity. 73–81.

Limning the Liminal: Carr and Ricoeur on Time and Narrative. David Pellauer. 51–62.

Time, Self, and Meaning in the Works of Henri Bergson, Maurice Merleau-Ponty, and Paul Ricoeur. Mark Muldoon. 254–68.

SALLIS, John

Response. 209–11.

The Rooting and Uprooting of Reason: On Spacings by John Sallis. Kenneth Maly. 195–208.

SANTONI, Ronald E.

The Nuture of War: "Just War" Theory's Contribution. 82–92.

SARTRE, Jean-Paul

Sartre on Surpassing the Given. Thomas Busch. 26–31.

Autobiography Against Itself. Richard White. 291–303.

The Idenity of the Subject, After Sartre. Brian Seitz. 362–71.

SASSOWER, Raphael and Charla Phyllis Ogaz

Philosophical Hierarchies and Lyotard's Dichotomies. 153–60.

SCHELER, Max

Contemporary Ethics and Scheler's Phenomenology of Community. Edward Vacek. 161–74.

SCHRIETER, Robert J., C.PP.S.

Philosophy Today and the Ressourcement of Catholic Philosophy. 9–13.

SEITZ, Brian

The Idenity of the Subject, After Sartre. 362–71.

SIPIORA, Michael P.

Heidegger and Epideictic Discourse: The Rhetorical Performance of Meditative Thinking. 239–253.

STRONG, David

The Possibility of a Homecoming for Us: A Reflection on the Odyssey. 325–38.

SULLIVAN, Patrick

Pragmatics and Pragmatism. 175–84.

SWEENY, Robert D.

Robert Lechner's Philosophy Today--The Early Years. 6–8.

TIME

Limning the Liminal: Carr and Ricoeur on Time and Narrative. David Pellauer. 51–62.

Time, Self, and Meaning in the Works of Henri Bergson, Maurice Merleau-Ponty, and Paul Ricoeur. Mark Muldoon. 254–68.

TRAGEDY

The Tragedy of Renown: Nietzsche, Aeschylus, and the Might Have Been. Michael Naas. 277–90.

TURSKI, George.

Emotions and Responsibility. 137–52.

VACEK, Edward

Contemporary Ethics and Scheler's Phenomenology of Community. 161–74.

VAN NESS, Peter H.

Pascal on Habit: Spiritual Discipline as the Practice of Paradox. 402–12.

VERGOTE, Antoine

The Body as Understood in Contemporary Thought and Biblical Categories. 93–105.

WALDENFELS, Berhnhard

Vérité à Faire: Merleau-Ponty's Question Concerning Truth. 185–94.

WALSH, Robert D.

The Healing Word: Language, Thinking and Being in the Earlier and Later Philosophy of Martin Heidegger. 228–38.

WAR

The Nuture of War: "Just War" Theory's Contribution. Ronald E. Santoni. 82–92.

WHITE, Richard

Autobiography Against Itself. 291–303.

WHITESIDE, Kerry H.

Universality and Violence: Merleau-Ponty, Malraux, and the Moral Logic of Liberalism. 372–89.

WOOD, Robert E.

Aspects of Freedom. 106–15.